Our Founder – Sidney Hillman

A Dedicated Labor Union Leader

The Amalgamated Family of Companies' labor roots date back to the early 1900s. Then, Sidney Hillman laid the foundation for trade unionism, fostering constructive cooperation between unions and industry. Hillman was committed to raising the standards of living and working conditions for American laborers. He advocated for them and in 1914 established the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America which, under his leadership, became one of the nation's fastest-growing unions.

In 1943, Hillman founded our flagship company, Amalgamated Life Insurance Company, to provide hardworking people with vital protection and security. Soon after, the National Health Fund and the National Retirement Fund were founded, both of which are administered by AliCare, our Third Party Administrator.

Our Commitment to Labor Lives On

Over 75 years later, Amalgamated Life lives on in the spirit of Sidney Hillman, providing working people and their families with high quality, affordable life, health and pension products and services.

Our unionized workforce demonstrates our strong labor ties.

For more than 40 years, Amalgamated Life has maintained a consistent A.M. Best “A” Rating (Excellent) – a testament to our strong fiscal condition and excellent claims-paying performance.
